

SEATRAC Awardee Support Grant (ASG)

Program Description

Purpose: Provide modest but important support for trainees for activities that facilitate communication, collaboration, research, and dissemination of research findings related to TB.

Amount: Up to $1000 with 25% matching funds other source. Approximately 10 ASGs will be awarded per year.

Eligibility Criteria

1. Applicants must be graduate students, post-doctoral fellows, acting or early career faculty with a rank of Assistant Professor or below at one of the SEA-TRAC affiliated institutions.
2. Maximum one award per 2 calendar years per person, with no more than 2 awards per person. Mentors are limited to 2 ASGs per year for their mentees to ensure a more equitable distribution of resources and diversity of research interest. Unsuccessful applicants may apply again for a different request.
3. Matching funds of 25% of costs of the activity must be provided by an alternative source (trainee, mentor, department, or other source) and documented in the application.

Specific Policies:

1. Requests for applications occur three times per year with submissions due in July, November, and March. One application per person per submission deadline. Applicant must register as SEA-TRAC member to apply: (link)
2. Eligible activities: support for publication and dissemination costs, costs associated with TB training or research meetings, and other educational activities directly linked to TB research. Manuscript publication charges are eligible only if the manuscript has been accepted. Ineligible expenses include salaries, stipends and computers.
3. Criteria for awarding of a ASG will include justification of the proposed activity as an integral part toward a NIs career development or in the case of established new to TB investigators a demonstration of new research direction in TB.
4. Trainees will have 12 months to submit receipts for reimbursement. A short summary of the outcomes of the activity will also be submitted at that time.
5. Acknowledgment of SEA-TRAC should be included in products produced as part of the activity.

SEA-TRAC values diversity and encourages individuals from underrepresented groups to apply.
